On August 29, 2018, the State Tax Department filed valuation variables to be used in conjunction with legislative regulations for the appraisal of natural resource properties. (See: §§ 110 CSR 1-H, 1-I, 1-J and 1-K). This notice will address one of the variables, royalty rate(s), setting forth the procedures used in developing the rate(s) for producing coal and other natural resources exclusive of oil and natural gas for Tax Year 2019.

DISCUSSION

In West Virginia, natural resources royalty rates are generally negotiated at a stated price per ton or as a percent of the selling price per ton of the resource produced. As most leases are negotiated as a percentage of selling price, it is necessary to obtain lease and sales information and to analyze this information in order to develop leasing and sales price patterns typical of the industry.

The Department's review of coal industry leasing patterns during the previous eight (8) years reveals that leases for surface mining operations (6.74%) are typically higher than for deep mining operations (5.53%). Review of sales prices reported in Coal Week, the Tax Year 2018 returns and other sources, further reveal a difference in typical selling prices of steam coal ($49.78 per ton) and metallurgical coal ($84.66 per ton).

Thus, royalty rates typically negotiated by the coal industry have been as follows:

- Steam Coal/Deep Mine
  - $49.78 per ton
  - 5.53% = $2.75 per ton

- Metallurgical Coal/Deep Mine
  - $84.66 per ton
  - 5.53% = $4.68 per ton

- Steam Coal/Surface Mine
  - $49.78 per ton
  - 6.74% = $3.35 per ton

- Metallurgical Coal/Surface Mine
  - $84.66 per ton
  - 6.74% = $5.70 per ton
Similar research of royalty rates for other natural resources revealed the following:
